

Not long ago. Not far away.

Post-Exhibition Lesson: Resistance and Reflection

Lesson developed by ROM School Programs

Resistance

In the face of tyranny and oppression, there have always been people who resisted that injustice. Thinking about what you have learned about World War II, the Holocaust, and Auschwitz, what do you think acts of resistance could look like?

Resistance could look like:

-
-
-
-
-

After learning more about real acts of resistance during the Holocaust, add more ideas to your list.

Resistance could also look like:

-
-
-
-
-

Learning from Objects

Look at the photos in the virtual lesson, or that are being shown by the educator in your webinar.

What are you observing?	What do you infer?	What did you learn about these objects?

What is the story these objects tell? How is it related to the theme of resistance?

Reflection

Thinking back over everything you have learned, what is your answer to this question: Why is it important to learn about Auschwitz and the Holocaust?